

TRAUMA-INFORMED care

Trauma-Informed Care understands and considers the pervasive nature of trauma and promotes environments of healing and recovery rather than practices and services that may inadvertently re-traumatize.

"A Trauma-Informed Care approach strives to understand the whole of an individual who is seeking services."

THE EFFECTS OF TRAUMA

IMPAIRS

memory, concentration, new learning, and focus.

IMPACTS

an individual's ability to trust, cope, or form healthy relationships.

DISRUPTS

emotion identification, ability to self-soothe or control expression of emotions; and ability to distinguish between what is safe and unsafe.

SHAPES

a person's belief about self and others, ability to hope, and outlook on life.

CORRELATES

to heart disease, obesity, addiction, pulmonary illness, diabetes, autoimmune disorders, and cancer.

RE-TRAUMATIZATION: WHAT HURTS?

System

*Policies, procedures,
"The way things
are done"*

Relationship

Power, control, subversiveness

- Having to continually retell their story
- Being treated as a number
- Being seen as their label (i.e., addict, schizophrenic)
- No choice in service or treatment
- No opportunity to give feedback about their experience with the service delivery
- Not being seen/heard
- Violating trust
- Failure to ensure emotional safety
- Non-collaborative
- Does things for rather than with
- Use of punitive treatment, coercive practices, and oppressive language

WHAT HELPS?

Create a Trauma-Informed Care environment using the following five principles:

1

Safety

Creating areas that are calm and comfortable

2

Choice

Providing individualized options in treatment

3

Empowerment

Noticing capabilities in an individual

4

Collaboration

Making decisions together

5

Trustworthiness

Providing clear and consistent information

The Road To TRAUMA-INFORMED CARE

- Ensure administrative commitment to integrating a trauma-informed culture.
- Provide introductory training to all staff.
- Establish an internal trauma team.
- Address any potential retraumatizing policies and procedures.
- Conduct early and respectful trauma screening and assessment for all.

A Trauma-Informed Care approach realizes the direct impact that trauma can have on access to services and responds by changing policies, procedures and practices to minimize potential barriers.
